TELECOM

Telecom wishes to advise all telephone subscribers whose number starts with 50, 56, 57, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68 and 69, that coincident with the issue of the 1988 telephone directory (approximately June 1988), their telephone number will be changed. This change involves prefixing an extra digit (6) to the existing number.

For instance: 65-000 becomes 665-000
54-321 become 654-321

FOREWORD

First published in 1973, "Help" has in the years since then, proved to be a most invaluable guide to clubs, organisations and services in and around Christchurch.

This eighth revised edition of "HELP" is in the same format as that used in the previous edition. To assist users in locating information the book is again arranged in four main sections:

Community Organisations;
Health, Welfare, Education;
Recreation;
Government Departments, Local Bodies, Civil Defence.

Each of these main sections is divided into appropriate sub-sections within which entries are arranged alphabetically.

In the comprehensive, alphabetical index most organisations and services are listed separately, but where there is a number of similar organisations these are shown by one inclusive entry in capital letters, for example, COMMUNITY CENTRES, with relevant page numbers. As an aid to locating information particularly about social service organisations a general heading in capital letters, for example, FAMILY CARE AND SUPPORT, has been included in addition to the individual entry for each organisation or service.

Because of the increased number of entries some have had to be reduced from the submitted form. All entries have been carefully checked and should be accurate as of October 1987. But because of the rapid demolition and rebuilding that is going on in Christchurch it is inevitable that some information will become out-of-date. Attention is drawn to the fact that telephone numbers in many cases will change in 1988 by the addition of an extra digit.

Special thanks must go to the Help Committee and especially the chairman, Mr Peter Andrew for guidance. The Committee gratefully acknowledges the continuing financial and practical contributions made by the Christchurch City Council and the Canterbury Hospital Board. The support of the advertisers is also warmly appreciated.

Valuable assistance in collecting and checking the information was given to me by Marcia Takitimu and Philip Perry. Special thanks for their work in putting the material on to the computer must go to Brenda Walker, Ingrid Kamstra and Cath Christie and last but not least to Wendy Cleghorn and Fiona Lees for their tremendous help with the final printouts. Thanks must also go to Clarrie Ford, Dave Stewart and John Luke for help with proofreading. Special thanks must go to the Community Services Division of the Christchurch City Council for their help and kindness in the months spent preparing this edition.

It has been an enjoyable learning experience putting together this new edition. Certainly no one can say that there is nothing to do in Christchurch.

CONSUMER PROTECTION

CONSUMERS INSTITUTE

If you have a complaint about the price or quality of goods or services, you should go to the firm you dealt with and explain your problem to the person in authority.

If the complaint is about quality or service, telephone or write to the Complaints Service, Consumers Institute, 482 Tuam Street, P O Box 10038, Telephone 892-078.

SMALL CLAIMS TRIBUNAL

If you are still dissatisfied, and the amount involved is under $1000, you may lodge a claim with the Small Claims Tribunal. The first aim of this Tribunal is to settle the dispute by mutual agreement. If this is impossible, the Tribunal makes an order which is binding. Anyone can make a claim. If you are under 18, the Tribunal may appoint someone (not a lawyer) to represent you. The Registrar of the District Court or the Citizens Advice Bureau will be able to tell you whether your claim qualifies. A filing fee of $5.00 is charged and is the only cost involved unless the Tribunal orders you to pay any other costs. This is rare.

Organisations wishing to apply to the Committee for consideration should address their application in the form of a letter to the District Clerk, Waimairi District Council, Private Bag, Fendalton, by 17 December each year. HOUSING

Housing Standards

The Council is responsible for ensuring that the condition of housing in the city meets the required standard set out in the Housing Improvement Regulations 1947. The City Health Department provides a Housing Improvement Advisory Service for property owners requiring advice on upgrading or adding to their properties.

Rental Housing for the Elderly

Units built by the City Council and subsidised by Government are let only to persons 60 years of age and over or to persons in receipt of an invalids' benefit who have a housing need and whose assets do not exceed $12,000 for a single person or for a couple $15,000 (excluding car, furniture and personal effects). The Council administers in excess of 1500 units.

Adams Bequest Housing for the Elderly

Fourteen rental units. Eligibility is for those over 60. The asset limit is $25,000 and rents are higher than for the Elderly Persons Housing.

Owner/Occupier Housing for the Elderly

These units cater for persons ineligible for rental housing because their assets exceed the government limit. A cash contribution is required and the balance of the cost will be provided by mortgage. The qualifications as required for rental accommodation apply but the asset limit is increased. When owners no longer require the flats, they are re-purchased by the Council for re-allocation.

Rental Flats Available to the Public

383 flats in various complexes.

These flats are available to any but preference is given to those with a housing need. Accommodation includes bedsitters, one, two and three bedroom units.

Rental Houses

Properties bought for Council projects such as motorways and road widening etc, are usually let on short-term tenancies until such time as the properties are demolished. Tenants must vacate these when they are required by the Council. Full details are available at the Housing and Property Division of the City Council.
